Many prayers for you as you travel this road that you've already been down. No parent should ever have to experience your loss...and twice...our hearts break for you.

“ We did not know Cotton , but we regret your loss and sorrow. My wife and I have lost sons a few years younger than him and because you too have experienced loss before, you understand the grieving process as you go through the "valley of the shadow of death." The tragedy of loss is tough, but we found great comfort in our Christian faith even though we struggled with the pain and loss. We found that each person grieves in a unique way and time, so we encourage you to recognize and allow that in your families. As time passes you will be able to recall times of happiness with your Cotton and that will help you deal with the loss. We hope that friends will share with you their memories of the good times with him.
