“ I remember you in a camouflage jacket and a ball cap. You came in the front door one day when i was very little and said with your arms open wide, Hey pumpkin! I hugged you and i remember you smelled like a campfire and marlboro reds. :) I remember I felt safe. I held your hand the night you passed I never left your side. So many things i meant to say but couldn't find the words. The struggle is finally over Dad. I'll be seeing you, love always, Sarah Beth

“ Cobb,

I'll never forget the time on the back side of the lake that I lost my cell phone and you and I backtracked about 3/4 mile to find it. I'll also never forget that on that walk you spotted the finest gem quality bird point I've ever seen from a good 40 feet and walked straight to it right after I had almost stepped on it without seeing. We knew each other over 45 years and times I spent with you in the woods will be some of my most treasured memories until the day I join you. As is often the case Shakespeare said it best:

"Now cracks a noble heart. Goodnight, sweet prince. And flights of angels sing thee to thy rest." Horatio, from Hamlet

Leave the door cracked for me bro.

“ Danny, You were so, so funny! I will always remember your sweet nature and kind heart. One special memory is when my mom and dad took you and me to McDonalds for my 16th birthday and you always skunked me at Scrabble!
