“ My dear Danny. This message is for you since I didn't get to talk with you before you left. I want you to know I wish things would have gone differently. I have many regrets. I cried my eyes out for weeks after we divorced because I missed you. I did what I thought was best at the time, but that honestly did not mean I cared any less or forgot you. I have looked online many times throughout the years searching for you - to tell you these things. When I heard last Friday that you were sick and I knew where you were, I planned to come visit and tell you these things in person, but I was too late. There will be those left here on earth that won't believe this, but I know you are looking down from heaven and can read my heart - Now you can know...I have NEVER stopped loving you and I never will. Rest in Peace dear man.
