“ I fondly remember Mayme (and Max) from WAY back in the days of the Southside church in Midland, when Max was a near rookie fire-fighter. What could been a most unpleasant and tragic memory of division in the church, ended up being a tender and precious memory of what I witnessed and will forever carry in my heart. Nobody in their family would have knowledge of what might have been, but I cherish the memory of how Max and Mayme handled the events with style and grace. They were truly a class act, and I am thankful for knowing them, though from a distant and perhaps even, unrealized perspective. May heavenly peace rest upon all who mourn their passing.
